Literary Club of Management Education and Research Institute organized a two hours seminar on IKIGAI and Leadership Skills on December 21, 2022 in 4th floor seminar hall for the students of BBA and MBA. The seminar focused on the how to define the purpose of our life by using the popular Japanese Technique IKIGAI and how to develop good leadership skills.

The highlight of the workshop was the Ikegai session conducted by Mr. Debojit Singh, founder of Crack ED, an expert in holistic well-being. Ikegai, a Japanese concept, revolves around finding one's true purpose in life. Mr. Singh's session guided participants in discovering their passions, strengths, and areas of fulfillment. Attendees were encouraged to align their personal and professional pursuits with their inner values and interests, fostering a sense of purpose and satisfaction

Mr. Debojit discussed about the 4 Golden question which comes Under IKIGAI, which helps a person to determine what is their purpose of life. He discussed about each question in very detail. He said that you are good at what you doing when others are praising you for the work, You'll not be good at what you are doing on day 1. If you love doing what you do, It is easy to keep at it and eventually you He talked about how leadership give the privilege to elevate the lives of people. He further talked about people management that, a leader manages things but he cannot and does not manage a person, he leads a person. Leaders should actually care about each person on their team, they should always give attention to get attention if they want. It is very much important to have the feeling of togetherness among the team members, team feeling, demonstrated caring, Egalitarian Treatment etc. He mentioned about the Golden Circle which contains WHY, HOW & WHAT. He said that finding the why of yours is very important, it should be answered because after that your How and What will eventually be answered. If the purpose of the work, i.e. WHY do you want to do something is clear to you, you will find automatically find HOW you can do it and WHAT exactly you need to do it. Don't do things just because others are doing it, do it because you want to do it.

Then he talked about Self leadership that before leading others you should lead yourself. It included three aspects and those are Self awareness in which you check your own character first before doing it for others, Self Reflection in which he asked the students to always ask themselves how did they do, at the end of the day and last Self Regulation i.e. Decide what you want to have and then be self disciplined to do it.

11 Report on “Human Values & Ethics” held on 7th January 2023

This guest lecture was taken by Dr. Neelam Bali on Human Values and Ethics organized by MERI Institute on 7th Jan, 2023, which was explained to the students and faculty the importance of human ethics by defining the quality of a person or an organisation or society at large. Practitioners of values and ethics learn these lessons through self-initiated endeavours, through the life experience that is the greatest laboratory of learning, and through the educational institutions, those they attend. Hence, the educational institutions themselves need to be values and ethics personified. It is needless to emphasise that education is the most important pillar of a civilized and dignified society. The entire structure of society or nation depends on the strength of this pillar. If this pillar is strong, society would remain humane and would prosper. If this pillar develops some fractures, the society may enter into sub-human phase. Thus, there is a need to keep emphasising the importance of human values in educational institutions. Few Glimpses:

16 Report Special Lecture on “ Increasing the efficiency of (Public) Policies through Behavioral Interventions held on 23rdNovember, 2022

It's frequently essential to alter behavior to address societal issues. We must consider how we can encourage individuals to save more and spend less if we want them to become indebted less frequently. Make sure individuals exercise more and eat less sugar and fat if we want them to be healthier. Finding strategies to encourage students to visit school is necessary if we want to lower student absenteeism. Hence, Behavioral-based intervention in designing public policies has become an important field of study in recent years with empirical studies devoted to analyzing how to design better policies from the fields of behavioral economics, social psychology, sociology, anthropology, economy, political science, design (human-centered design and design thinking), or effective state and non-state bureaucracies throughout the world. Therefore, Management Education and Research Institute and Guru Gobind Indraprastha University, New Delhi organized a “Special Lecture on Increasing the Efficiency of Public Policies through Behavioral Interventions” jointly on 23rd November 2022 to apprise students about the practical and theoretical implications of behavioral-based intervention in designing public policies.

Chaifetz School of Business

Dr. Nitish Singh explained “The Bricolage Concept”. This kind of hands on approach and “creative reinvention” involves developing solutions through resource repackaging, transposing, and recombining. It also implies the entrepreneur’s refusal to see limitations on known existing resources. Entrepreneurs can enact bricolage in different areas like Physical assets by using discarded, worn, or presumed single-application materials for new purposes; Labour inputs by activating customers, suppliers, etc; skills by daring and encouraging the use of amateur and self taught skills that would otherwise remain unapplied; Finding Institutional voids, and Markets by offering products and services that would otherwise not be available.
